President's Radio Talk Expected to End Confusion About Aims

WASHINGTON—A Presidential summing up of the New Deal program, how far it has gone and where it is headed, is scheduled soon, if Roosevelt's closest friends have their say.

It has been some time now since the President went on the air in one of his intimate talks to the Nation, and his advisers think that no time is more opportune than the present.

Many people have been disconcerted by the Wall Street attack on the Securities Act, the Stock Market Bill and other reform measures. Congress has become a bit unruly, the President's popularity particularly so. Some people are wondering whether Roosevelt is abandoning part of his program, are confused by all the spokesmen who pretend to speak for the President.

To have the aims of the New Deal outlined once again by the one man responsible for them is essential, and as a result Roosevelt probably will go on the air before Congress adjourns.

Statesman's Vote

Considered how casually is conducted this grave business of law making.

The Senate was in the midst of a major vote on one of the air-mail provisions. Senator Copeland, New York's red-carnationed physician-statesman, voted "aye." Then, while the roll still was being called, he ambled over to a seat beside Senator Pat McCarran of Nevada, also interested in the bill.

Senator McCarran was just voting "nay." Senator Copeland, with an air of surprise, ventured: "I thought you were in favor of this."

"No, I'm not. I'm opposed to the whole idea."

"Well, well, well," quoth Copeland, rising to his feet and addressing the chair: "Mr. President, I change my vote from 'aye' to 'nay.' I voted under a misapprehension."

Fluid Milk

The all-important question of milk—its curtailed production or its increase—continues unsettled.

Originally Secretary Henry Wallace and his Agricultural Adjustment administrators went in for a strict system of milk control, including production and distribution.

Against this there was terrific rebellion. One revolt came from within Wallace's organization, led by the Consumers' Council which pointed out that millions of children were without sufficient milk, that the country needed more milk instead of less.

The other revolt came from that all-powerful of dairy organizations—the National Co-operative Milk Producers Association.

But having won its point, the latter organization is in revolt again. Charles Holman, high-pressure lobbyist, its Washington representative, has been showing obvious signs of worry.

The trouble is this: When the Milk Producers' Association urged no control of milk, it was winter. Production was at a low ebb. Now Spring is here. Milk production has gone up—way up. And with maximum output, prices soon may fall.

When that happens, there is no amount of explanation either by Holman, Henry Wallace, or anyone else which can appease the dairyman's wrath, and there is likely to be a revival of demand for milk production control.

"POWER FRANCHISE PERMANENT"—Bricker

DECISION MADE UPON REQUEST OF PROS. DAVIS

Attorney General Cites
Number of Cases in Higher Courts

SOUGHT BY COUNCIL

May Have Effect on Municipal Effort

An opinion that may have a decided effect on action toward municipal ownership of an electric power plant in Circleville was read in council meeting, Wednesday evening, by Solicitor Carl C. Leist. It was the ruling of Attorney General John W. Bricker on the question: "Does the Southern Ohio Electric Co. have an indeterminate franchise in Circleville?"

His ruling was "Yes." The opinion was referred to Solicitor Leist by Prosecuting Attorney Ray W. Davis to whom it was rendered after Davis had written Mr. Bricker at the request of Mr. Leist. Councilman-at-large Ben H. Gordon had requested Mr. Leist to seek the opinion.

WOULD BE COMPETITIVE

It is believed that since the power company has a franchise which is permanent, according to Bricker's ruling, the chances of the city having its own electric plant constructed are lessened. The power company would provide competition for the municipal plant under the set-up existing under Bricker's decision.

There is nothing "in the books," however, to prevent construction of a municipal plant.

Council received the report of the solicitor and instructed him to place a copy of it on file.

The communication follows: "I acknowledge receipt of your communication in which you inquired as to whether a franchise granted a public utility by a municipality which is not expressly limited as to the time it should terminate, is a permanent franchise."

"The supreme court of this state has consistently held that such a franchise is terminable at the will of either party. See Gasoline Co. vs. Akron, 81 Ohio State, 33; N. O. T. & L. Co. vs. State ex rel., 93 Ohio State, 466; Ohio Service Co. vs. State 113 Ohio State, 325. However, in the cases which have been taken to the United States supreme court it has been held that such a franchise, in the absence of any statutory or constitutional limitations or court decisions of the state prior to the execution of the franchise is perpetual."

GRANTED IN 1891

"The franchise concerning which you inquire was granted in 1891 when there was no statutory or constitutional provisions limiting the time during which such franchise could run. Louisville vs. Telephone Co., 224 U. S. 649; Owensboro vs. Telephone Co., 230 U. S. 58; N. O. T. & L. Co. vs. State ex rel., 245 U. S. 574 Ohio Service Co. vs. State, 274 U. S. 12. "It would seem therefore that the franchise concerning which you inquire would be a permanent franchise."

Very truly Yours,
John W. Bricker,
Attorney General."

WATTS FINED $10

Charles "Bud" Watts was fined $10 and costs and ordered to the county jail when he was arrested Wednesday night for intoxication and disorderly conduct.

Materials From Boggs and Schleyer Properties May Construct City Jail

Possibility that Circleville may yet construct a city jail was seen today after it was declared the city could obtain bricks, windows, and other materials from the Hotel Boggs and the Hohen-Schleyer properties when they are dismantled to make room for a federal building.

It was reported in council, Wednesday evening, that the FERA will raze the buildings and give the salvaged materials to the city if council will

Non-Stop Tour To Rome Planned as Soon as New York Weather Permits.

NEW YORK, May 3.—Planning to be first off in the 1934 transatlantic airplane race, George R. Pond and Cesare Sabelli, New York to Rome fliers, notified Floyd Bennett field authorities that they would take off as soon as weather permitted on their projected non-stop flight.

They requested Sam Levy, manager of the airport, to remove at least 100 feet of the fence at the southern end of the field's runway to give them a few more hundred feet of take-off space.

The fliers are using a special built Bellanca monoplane powered with a Wright Whirlwind Motor. They will take 100 gallons of gasoline and expect to reach Rome within 45 hours.

Mrs. Watson is the daughter of Mr. and Mrs. George Bentley, N. Scioto-st, this city.

ARMED GUARDS TO ACCOMPANY OHIO'S CHIEF

White Agrees to Protection Until Dillinger Scare Ends

THREATS ARE BARED

Highway Patrolmen to Trail His Auto

COLUMBUS, May 3.—Yielding to the insistent appeals of his daughter, Miss Mary Louise White and members of his official family, Governor George White has agreed to be accompanied by armed guards on all out-of-town trips until the "Dillinger scare" is over, it was learned here today.

For some time the governor has been under partial guard following the receipt of threats against his life and that of his daughter unless the three Dillinger associates, convicted recently at Lima for the first degree murder of Sheriff Jess Sarber, were released from the Ohio Penitentiary where they now are incarcerated.

TAKE PRECAUTION

Although the governor regarded the threats lightly, members of his official family and his daughter were persistent that every precaution should be taken to safeguard the life of the state's chief executive.

Hereafter, two state highway patrolmen, armed with a machine gun, will ride in another automobile about 250 feet behind the governor's car on all his trips. The guard followed the governor for the first time last night to assist in the ceremonies attendant to dedication of Radio Station WLW.

The governor, who has repeatedly scoffed at reports that Dillinger might kidnap him or his daughter, Miss Mary White still believes such a possibility is very remote.

"There is only one chance in a thousand that Dillinger would try to do anything to me," he said, pointing out that he had agreed to being placed under guard only at the insistence of members of his cabinet.

TWO AT MANSION

No additional guards will be stationed at the executive mansion in Columbus, and the governor will not be accompanied by guards when he is in the city, he said. Two guards are stationed at the mansion every night.

White believes there is little possibility that the Dillinger gang would attempt to strike against Miss White. "They don't know where she is all the time, like they know about me," he said.

Federal Men Think Ford Was Parked in Chicago Street
By Confederate.

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 3.—Federal agents in this district who have been working night and day to run down John "Toy Gun" Dillinger, believe the Indiana killer planted the stolen Ford car in which he and his henchmen escaped from Mercer, Wis., in Chicago yesterday to throw his pursuers off the track.

Dillinger, the agents here pointed out, is crafty and they scout the idea he would have abandoned his car on the streets in Chicago where it would certainly be found soon. They believe some members of the Dillinger mob or some of his trusted friends drove the car to Chicago and deliberately left the clues in it which enabled police to identify it as the car Dillinger had used.

Evidence that agents here believe Dillinger is still in the Twin Cities or immediate vicinity was afforded last night when a crew of heavily armed federal agents closed in on a house in Minneapolis which they had been guarding for a couple of days. They searched the house thoroughly but found no trace of Dillinger or anyone connected with him.

International News Service learned that the address of the house was obtained from a telegram sent to Chicago. Federal agents refused information concerning the telegram but it is known that a woman sent it and that she is being closely shadowed.

PIKE-CO MERCHANT MURDERS, SUICIDES

WAVELY, May 3.—Grief-stricken by the double tragedy, Miss Alice Dewey today was unable to give authorities a motive for the act of her father, Paul Dewey, 44, prominent Jasper, O., merchant, in slaying his wife, Elsie, 39, and then committing suicide last yesterday.

The tragedy occurred while the daughter was in an upstairs room. Dewey shot his wife through the chest and mouth and then ended his own life by firing a bullet through his left temple.

Mrs. Dewey was still alive when her daughter reached her but she died two hours later in a Chillicothe hospital.

Dewey was well-known throughout this region. He was the proprietor of one of the largest general stores in this section.

PARKING ILLEGAL ON MOUND STREET NEAR BALL FIELD

Mayor W. B. Cady, Thursday, called attention of the city ordinance which prevents parking on W. Mound-st adjacent to the recreation ball field.

Parking on this road is punishable by a $25 fine. Since all Route 22 traffic is detoured on Mound-st parking on this highway makes the situation dangerous.

There will be considerable space in the outfield of the ball park. It would be advisable, however, to park on Western-ave and walk to the field.

COUNCIL TAKES ACTION TO END 'BOOTLEGGING'

Ordinance Passed Setting
Heavy Penalty for Illegal
Liquor

ASKS POLICE ACTION

Legislation Cooperates
With State's Effort

An ordinance designed to coordinate local and state liquor traffic, as advocated by E. G. Matthews, head of the enforcement division of the Ohio department of liquor control, was passed after third reading by council Wednesday evening.

Money derived from the ordinance goes entirely to the general fund of the city if the arrest and conviction are accomplished under the ordinance.

Persons manufacturing or selling, transporting, importing non-intoxicating beer, wine, spirituous liquors or alcohol fit for beverage purposes in violation of the General Code of Ohio would be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor. All persons holding a license issued by the state department of liquor control and not displaying it conspicuously in their places of business would also be guilty of a misdemeanor. The ordinance also specifies that holders of a permit to transport liquor must display a photostatic copy of this permit on or within the conveyance being used for the transportation of liquor. Absence of such display would likewise be a misdemeanor.

CITES CERTIFICATE

The ordinance provides that a proper certificate signed by the director of the department shall be prima facie evidence that no permit has been issued to the persons specified therein or that a permit has been issued to the person or persons and has been revoked, cancelled or suspended.

The council determined that violators of the first part of the ordinance, that dealing with handling without a license, is punishable by a fine of $100 to $1,000 and 30 days to six months in jail, or both.

If the permit holder does not have license displayed he is subject to fine of from $25 to $100 and the same fine prevails for failure to a photostatic copy in a vehicle licensed for transportation.

Nothing in the ordinance is to be construed as preventing a bona fide resident of a municipality from manufacturing and possessing in his own home non-intoxicating beer and wine for his own consumption and not for the purpose of sale or transportation.

HITS BOOTLEGGERS

It is believed this ordinance will go far in the elimination of the bootlegger. Council urged that members of the city police department begin a drive against known bootleggers in the city.

Solicitor Carl C. Leist was instructed to draw an ordinance ordering that sale of intoxicating liquor be halted at 12 o'clock midnight. Council does not plan to pass the ordinance at once because there is only one restaurant in the city selling whiskey, the proprietor of that place is abiding strictly by the law. The ordinance will probably be held in reserve for use at any time it may be needed.

HEETER DIVORCE

A divorce action has been filed in common pleas court with George Heeter and Ellen M. Heeter as principals. The former is the plaintiff in the action today.

He says they were married on Oct. 10, 1914 and were divorced in 1924. They married again in 1927, this petition declares, and lived together until 1931 when she filed another divorce action which was dismissed after hearing in court.

Mr. Heeter charges the defendant with gross neglect of duty, extreme cruelty, and wilful absence. He says he has suffered much anguish because of her actions.

Custody of two children is asked besides divorce. Adkins and Adkins represent Mr. Heeter.

Mrs. Samuel Hawkes, E. Franklin-st, was taken to Grant hospital, Columbus, Wednesday for observation. She was expected to return to her home today.

Violation of Traffic Laws Cost Two Bucks

Hear ye, traffic law violators! The fine for first offense is now $2, so beware of violations.

Robert Pickens paid $2 into the treasury Wednesday night for making a U-turn at Franklin and Court-sts, right in front of the police station, and D. A. Leist deposited two more simoleons for having only one light on his vehicle.

7 ARRESTED AS VIOLATORS OF GAME LAW

Francis In Action; Three Pay
Fines, Two Jailed, Two More Called.

Max Rader and Frank Reichelderfer pleaded not guilty, Thursday, to taking fish illegally and gave $200 bond each for trial May 14 before Squire H. O. Eveland.

Seven alleged game law violators were taken in custody Wednesday evening by Game Protector Clarence Francis for "gigging" fish in Deer creek, near Williamsport. Floyd Warner, Harry Stonerock, and C. A. Hastings, all of Williamsport, paid fines of $25 and costs to Squire H. O. Eveland, Thursday; Roy and Henry Mahoney, also of Williamsport, were fined $25 and costs each and committed to jail, and Max Rader and Frank Reichelderfer, both of Jackson-twp, were ordered to report in Eveland's office Thursday afternoon.

Francis arrested the Mahoneys and Hastings at the Pennsylvania railroad bridge at Woodlyn with seven suckers and one black bass in their possession. A flashlight and two gigs were confiscated and the fish were taken to the Home and Hospital, this city. The arrests were made about 9 p. m.

Warner, Stonerock, and Reichelderfer were caught on Deer creek north of Williamsport at the mouth of Dry Run. They had gigs, lanterns and fine mesh chicken wiring on a riffle there, Francis charged.

Warns Hog Owners

A warning was issued to hog owners living within the city limits, Thursday, by Mayor W. B. Cady. All pens must be sanitary and must not give off an offensive odor or arrests will be made the official declared.

A state inspector will be in this city in a few days so immediate action is imperative.

WHAT... COUNCIL DID

Filed the report of Mayor Cady that fines, fees and licenses collected during April amounted to $33, $8.70 and $5, respectively, a total of $46.70.

Filed a report of Safety Director Shaner that receipts at Berger hospital in April amounted to $926.

Received a complaint from Pearl Gray that his property on upon by the new road. Took no action.

Approved the recommendation of service committee chairman, Frank Baker, that the sewer serving the Weldon, Weaver and Tee-gardin properties, S. Court-st, be taken over by the city as per request of the property owners.

Referred the sale of the motorcycle owned by the police department to the safety committee with power to act.

Heard a request of Highland-ave residents, through Councilman Leist, that a light be placed on that street. It is possible the city will co-operate with the highway department on this request.

SMALL SLASH HELPS USERS, HYDRANTS CUT

Ten Cents Slashed off
Minimum Charge in 3-
Year Contract

APPROVED BY ALL

Plant Purchase Discussed
by Gordon

Circleville finally has a water ordinance.

Tiring of continued wrangling, discussion and conferences, council entered a three year contract with the Ohio Water Service Co., Wednesday evening. It is the first ordinance the city has had with the utility for at least 10 years.

Every person who pays a water bill is slightly benefited by the ordinance since the new rate is $1.80 minimum per quarter, 10 cents per quarter lower than now being paid. The reduction is not a great one but was the only concession the council could gain from W. A. Dark, water company official, over previously agreed-upon reductions. In return for the slash which benefits all consumers council gave up 10 per cent of the proposed 25 per cent reduction for private sprinkler systems.

HYDRANTS REDUCED

The new rate for fire hydrants is $40 for each of 163 hydrants while it has been $55 each. This clause is dated back to January 1 but is subject to approval of water company executives.

The new consumers' ordinance reads: 45 cents per 100 cubic feet for the first 400 cubic feet; 30 cents per 100 cubic feet for the next 30,000 cubic feet; 15 cents per 100 cubic feet for the next 42,000 cubic feet and 7 1-2 cents per 100 cubic feet for all over 72,400 cubic feet. With the exception of the first step of the ordinance it is unchanged.

The bills can be rendered monthly or quarterly subject to the wash of the utility.

The new price for sprinkler systems will be $3.10 per 1,000 feet of floor space compared to $3.50 now paid. There are six private sprinkler systems in use in the city. They are at the Container Corporation of America, the Eschelman Milling Co., Goeller broom factory, Winor, Sears-Nichols and Esmeralda canning factories.

Private fire hydrant rental was also reduced from $55 to $47 monthly and private hose connections from $27.50 to $23.50.

Council unanimously passed the ordinance.

HAS PURCHASE CLAUSE

The legislation includes a clause which says that after two years the city will have the opportunity to purchase the plant with a price to be set by mutual agreement.

The ordinance came after council had recessed for discussion with Mr. Dark. An ordinance reducing sprinkler systems and fire hydrants had been agreed upon several months ago but there was considerable clamor for a reduction in the rate for the consumer so that council did not approve the ordinance. W. M. Reid, chairman of the ordinance committee, asked Mr. Dark to attend the meeting to try to work out some other solution.

The first question asked the utility representatives was: "Can you give us more water under the first bracket?" (This is the $1.90 per quarter cost where 400 cubic feet of water is allowed.) Dark's answer was an emphatic "No."

There was considerable discussion over this answer with the water company official standing by his guns. During the questioning Councilman Ben Gordon asked Mr. Dark why the water company did not set a price for sale of the plant to the city. Dark asked if the city could buy it to which Gordon replied "At the right price." Dark said his company had never set a price on the plant because it had never found anyone who wanted it and had enough money to buy it.

NOW TWO ORDINANCES

The city now has ordinances with two of its utilities, water and electric companies. A stalemate exists as far as the gas company and the city reaching an agreement is concerned, the present ordinance having expired in March, 1930.

Service Department Speeding Clean-Up

With the city service department running ahead of schedule in its Clean-Up campaign, residents of the south east district of the city are urged to have their refuse ready to haul away Friday. Cooperation is being afforded by a large number of residents.

PRASE PILOT FOR LANDING

NEW YORK, May 3.—Pilot Ernest Basham of Chicago was receiving congratulations today for the skill and courage he displayed in landing a fully loaded Curtiss Condor plane on a narrow strip of Staten Island beach during the height of a rain storm last night.

Report from Yucatan, Mexico, says that Mrs. Ludlow Smith filed suit for divorce in Merida. Mrs. Smith is best known to Americans as Katharine Hepburn, screen star. Her husband, Ludlow Ogden Smith, is a New York financial expert.

pilot, was bound for Newark airport from Buffalo, but the fog and rain prevented him from finding the field and he was forced to alight on the beach near Tottenville, Staten Island, when his gas supply ran low.

There were fifteen passengers aboard the plane and a second pilot and a stewardess.

Harry E. Wurst of Buffalo, one of the passengers, was the only occupant of the plane to suffer injury and his hurts were entirely superficial.

The passengers included M. J. Kittler, South Bend, Ind.; L. B. Spencer, K. C., West; Welland, Ontario, Canada; C. T. Fisk, Detroit; M. A. Combs, Montclair, N. J.; Harold Mastic, Hackensack, N. J.; George McNeice, Newark, N. J.; H. R. Hermange, Princeton, N. J.; and Sidney Horsehair, Montclair, N. J. The co-pilot of the plane was Daniel Boons and the stewardess Margaret M. Aldrich, both of Chicago.

Basham said when he found the airport he decided to fly around a bit in the hope of finding a break in the heavy weather. Several flares were dropped from the ship, which showed a narrow strip of sandy beach beneath them. He then told the passengers a forced landing would be necessary, and advised them to adjust their safety belts. The passengers appeared quite calm, Basham said.

Good "Beaver Money"

During the heyday of the fur trade many years ago, beaver skins passed as money. They had an established rating across the continent and as far east as the Atlantic coast of approximately four dollars for an average raw skin, says Nature Magazine. Following the transfer from hand to hand of the skins themselves other currency such as small stones or bits of metal, each bearing a crude drawing of a beaver and the initials or mark of a well-known trader and representing an actual skin lying in some storehouse, passed freely among traders and Indians.

The Modern Atlas

ATLAS no longer supports the civilized world.
Rather, the burden rests upon the supple shoulders of a flexible-muscled young giant; a tawny-haired, swiftly-moving youth known as Electricity.

He stands with feet firmly planted at the opposite poles while coursing through his body, from negative to positive, flows the greatest force known to mankind today.

Some call it white coal; some call it a natural phenomenon; others call it indefinable force. Call it what one will, it is the thing today which huris voices and music around the world; which turns the motors of the industries which have made America a great nation; pulls long trains of cars laden with human freight and valuable merchandise; lights the greatest city and the smallest hamlet.

It is the thing which is taking drudgery out of the housewife's daily tasks. It is the thing which enables science to see the inside of the human body and other matter. It is the power of the world today, every bit as necessary as the red blood which flows through the circulatory system of the human body.

No one catastrophe could befall the world today which would be more paralyzing or more devastating in its effect than the sudden loss of the natural phenomenon called electricity. Man can hardly conceive of modern civilization continuing without this benevolent force.

You never know why a man is a failure until you hear his scheme for saving the country.

Suppressing Quacks

In every profession there are those who indulge in practices that are regarded as unethical by the group. Formerly it was left for the state to punish these practitioners, but there is a growing tendency for professional men to oust from their ranks those who prove unworthy of public confidence.

It is commendable to see the medical profession, which for some years has been in need of trimming at the edges, making use of this means of eliminating quacks. That the profession is self-purifying is evidence of the high level of its standards as a whole.

Recently a county medical society suspended from its membership an alienist who had given questionable testimony in a number of important murder cases. Subsequently the state society sustained the action of the county society, officially ostracizing the physician from his profession. It was held that public confidence in the medical profession was being weakened by such testimony as the offending specialist gave.

Neither the medical profession nor society can afford to have the suspicion abroad that the profession is venal. Public confidence in the word and skill of medical practitioners is essential. Were it shattered it would amount to a catastrophe. Depend upon it, the doctors will see to it that no such catastrophe befalls mankind.

If you see well-dressed idlers out in the sticks, they are "getting government money."

What's in a name? Well, for many players it is the only difference between auction and contract.

Of course America is independent, except for coffee, tea, rubber, tin and a few little things like that.

No wonder the world suffers. It takes a tough guy to get well if he is taking the medicine of 17 doctors.

"I TAKE THIS WOMAN"

SYNOPSIS

After three years' travel in Europe, where she had gone following her father's death, young and beautiful Stanley Paige became bored and returned to New York to find the "something sort of sweet and important" which she felt she was missing. Stanley finds Perry Deverest, handsome young lawyer, still as much in love with her as ever, but her own heart is untouched. She longs for someone to love—someone to really belong to. Then she meets the fascinating Drew Armitage. It is love at sight. Drew's most recent heart had been sophisticated Dennis St. John. In breaking with her, he said: "You know, Dennis, you're a lot like me—you know when a thing is ended and you accept it—gracefully." Ned Wingate informs Stanley that the latter's lawyer, Charles Carleton, has been playing the market heavily and wonders if her funds are intact. Knowing that love to Stanley means marriage, Drew casually proposes. Realizing her extreme innocence, he regrets his flirtatious past. Drew admits to Dennis that, although he is not marrying Stanley for her money, if she were poor he would have loved her just the same but... he would have the good sense to stay away from her. Then comes the crash and Stanley's fortune is lost. As long as she has Drew, the loss of the money means nothing to Stanley. Her castles crumble when he informs her it would be madness to attempt marriage on his income.

CHAPTER TWELVE

Stanley felt her fingers dragging at her lips. She was trembling again. Uncontrollably. She wished he would go. Quickly before she did something stupid. Before she flung herself in his arms and begged him to stay; before she beat his face with her clenched fists and told him she hated him. She sunk her nails into her clenched hands and set her teeth into her underlip to keep it from shaking.

"Aren't you going to say—anything?" He frowned at her uncertainly. Like all men who were intimate with women he was afraid of emotional silences. He had felt he could depend on Stanley. That she would not go hysterical on him. She was not the emotional type that threatened to kill themselves when thwarted. But now he felt a bit uneasy. She had stared at him so long with those wide gray eyes, her mouth such a piteous shaken thing. Better to go now while things were not too complicated. Better to leave her while it was still possible. He decided suddenly not only to leave her, but to leave New York. To go back to Chicago. It would be kinder to both of them. And much safer.

"I'm going away," he told her, putting his decision into words, "and I'm not coming back. You think I'm cruel now but you'll come to see that I'm really being kind. Try not to think too badly of me, Stanley. I shall never forget you, you know. And I shall always regret having hurt you—but never having loved you!"

He would go now. Quickly before anything happened to spoil that last speech. Gosh, but she looked beautiful, standing there, in those silly pajamas! It had certainly been a rotten break, Carleton's losing that money. He'd loved her, desired her, more than any other girl he'd ever known. Possessing her would have been a unique and unforgettable experience. It was rotten bad luck. He deliberated whether to kiss her again or not. Decided against it. That last kiss had been a total failure. He smiled at her honestly, compassionately. For a brief, fleeting second he was sorer for her than for himself. Then, still feeling magnanimous, he turned and strode across the room.

He was going now. She watched him leave her. Watched him cross the long room. Watched him open the door. Then as suddenly and unexpectedly as he had come into her life, he had gone out of it—leaving her quite alone in Alita Lawson's charming, drawing room.

As abruptly as Stanley had flung himself face downward on the chintz divan, she jerked herself up. Her body was no longer shaken by those hard, punishing sobs, only her mouth remained demoralized. Her eyes were quite guiltless of tears. Her hands completely steady. She stood up and walked swiftly out of the room. As she went she was very careful not to look at the place where Drew's cigarette lay, a limp, dead thing flung into a silver ash tray; was very careful not to look at the great bowl of golden roses he had sent that morning. But she was terribly aware of both of these things: the dead, gray ash of his cigarette, the golden fragrance of his roses.

She went out of the room and down the hall to her room where Ellen was waiting for her. But she ignored her old nurse's compassionate eyes, outstretched hands.

Ellen dressed her silently, laid out her flat, smooth purse, fresh suede gloves. Watched her pull on a tight little red hat, run a lipstick over her mouth, touch her cheeks with rouge. Watched her tuck the purse under her arm, pull on her gloves with steady fingers.

"Don't look so tragic, Ellen," she paused at the door, a faintly reassuring smile curving her stricken mouth. "I'm perfectly all right. And don't worry about me—nothing more can ever possibly happen to me!"

She felt the engine throb beneath her hands, pressed her foot harder on the accelerator and felt the long, low-slung car leap ahead, a sudden cream-colored streak, in a long line of orange and red taxis, sleek dark town cars and roaring trucks. A light changed and she jammed on her brakes, holding the high-powered car back as one would restrain a restive thoroughbred, releasing it with a roar when the signal changed. A young policeman looked after her with half-admiring, half-concerned eyes. "She's desperate—that one," he thought to himself, "when they drive like that—they don't give a damn—and she's pretty, too. I wonder what's busted her up so?"

After mile of asphalt melted away beneath the hot rubber of her tires. Mile after mile of endless suburb trailed past her eyes in an ever untwisting ribbon of paved streets, brick houses, frame houses, children, milk trucks, parks, filling stations, railroad crossings, factories, more houses, more children, women with market baskets, women with baby carriages, amusement parks, country clubs, then—as the sun swung lower in the west—fewer towns, more hills, open country at last.

And as she tore along the road, with the world flashing by her on each side like huge colored slides from an enormous magic lantern, so her thoughts tore through her mind, quick, clear fragments, swiftly moving, ever changing, now as bright and gay and haunting as a jade filling station, now as gray and hard and inescapable as a stone wall. The scarlet evening gown that Drew had insisted on her buying because scarlet burned up the aloofness in her gray eyes... the scent of apple blossoms at dawn, that had been a mad, sweet hour... the twang of a violin in a little Russian restaurant... the soft break of the ocean against hard, warm sand... Drew's eyes telling her dear, foolish, impossible things in a crowd... Drew's mouth crushed in sweet abandon against her own after hours of hunger... Drew's arms flung about her shoulders, the feel of rough tweed beneath her cheek, the rumple of his dark hair between her fingers. His voice, a shaken whisper close to her ear... "Oh, Stanley, you're beautiful... You're so slender and white, so terrifyingly sweet." Or perhaps in a lighter, less intense mood—"You know, darling, I wake up a dozen times in the night and reach for you—you're always there, awake or asleep—always in my arms." Or, "I'm jealous of your eyelashes, Stanley, they're like two shielding little shadows, always falling down over your eyes so I can't see what you're thinking about."

Then blotting all this out, squeezing it flat like a hand crushed against a trembling butterfly—the tense hard line of Drew's jaw, the dark frown between his eyes, the stiffening of his voice... What was it he had said? "Utter madness for us to marry now... you will forget... go on to some other man... I shall always regret having hurt you... but never having loved you." A door opening. A door closing. Silence. Silence as still and as unbroken as death. A little death. Golden roses in a silver bowl. A dead cigarette on a silver ash tray. A room still and warm and empty. A girl sobbing on a chintz davenport. A girl driving furiously through space.

That was what Perry had meant, then, when he had said he was not sure, that was what Dennis had meant that day she had tried to tell her that love didn't last. They had both seen, Marcia had seen. Everyone had seen except herself. And she had been blind. Stupidly blind, her eyes blurred with love. And it hadn't been real. Nothing was real any more. Nothing but the feel of the engine beneath her fingers, the sound of the motor beneath the cream-colored hood, the sweep of the wind against her face. That was real. She would go on and on until she left everything behind—until there was nothing, nothing.

But she didn't, of course. All the time she had known that she wouldn't. That you couldn't run away from things like that. That in the end you had to come back. And go on—the best way you could. At four o'clock she stopped at a filling station for gas and a cup of coffee. It was strong and stinging hot. The boy who brought it to her looked sympathetic and curious.

LETTERS TO EDITOR

Circleville, Ohio,
May 3, 1934
Dear Sir:

I wish you would insert these few lines in your paper so that all the good people who have been so wonderfully kind to me during my recent stay at Berger Hospital may know that I appreciate everything that was done for me. Almost as soon as I was off the operating table, presents of all kinds began to appear at my bedside. I never saw so many flowers—so much fruit and candy—and other good things to eat, including even a case of pop. While I was at Berger I had everything any sick man could want—and the best of kind and thoughtful services by all the nurses.

In fact I was treated so well out there that I think I'll have my other leg amputated so I can go out there again. (But if I don't, I want everybody to know how much I really appreciate everything.)

Quinsy Sore Throat "In Season"

This Painful Disease Is More Common in the Spring and Fall

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M. D.
United States senator from New York
Former Commissioner of Health
New York City

WARM WEATHER is here and with it a variety of diseases encountered in changeable weather. Such a disease is "quinsy sore throat" which occurs most frequently in spring and fall.

Quinsy sore throat is an uncomfortable and painful affliction. Many persons have the false impression it is merely an inflammation or irritation of the throat. It is really an abscess located in the throat near the tonsil. It is a common affliction of persons who are victims of tonsillitis and, in most instances, can be traced to diseased and infected tonsils. It is often confused with tonsillitis but differs from this infection by being more painful and involving only one side of the throat.

Like tonsillitis, the sufferer from quinsy sore throat is unable to swallow food and has pain on eating or talking. High fever, headache and general discomfort are other signs of this disorder. As a rule, there is a throbbing and painful sensation in the ear of the side affected. For this reason it is often mistaken for an infected ear.

The only cure for quinsy sore throat is incision and drainage of the pus. Like any other abscess within the body, cure can only be brought about by evacuation of the pus. Unfortunately, most persons fear the knife and avoid this simple operation. This is an unwise attitude, for although the acute pain might subside and the infection seem to clear up, it will recur at frequent intervals. I have known patients who have had as many as six to ten attacks of quinsy sore throat within a short period of time.

Of course, quinsy sore throat can be prevented by removing all centers of infection within the throat. Since infected and enlarged tonsils are the most common causes of this disturbance, I would recommend that tonsils which are really diseased be removed. If you are the victim of diseased tonsils and quinsy sore throat do not hesitate to have the operation. If you have never suffered from this form of sore throat, but have had trouble with your tonsils, you can save yourself from a great deal of unnecessary pain by having the tonsils removed.

May Cause Other Diseases
Diseased tonsils are a stumbling block to health. They are often the underlying cause of such physical disturbances as heart disease, kidney disease, arthritis, neuritis and neuralgia. This menace is especially great in young children. Enlarged and diseased tonsils retard the normal growth of children. Though it is not the cause of chorea and acute rheumatism, it is often a contributing factor in the onset of these dreaded infections.

In what I have said, I do not mean to imply that all tonsils should be removed. This is a mistaken idea and I am strongly opposed to such a procedure. The tonsils should only be removed when they are enlarged and infected.

Bear in mind, that in quinsy sore throat, the seat of infection may come from diseased and infected teeth or nasal sinuses. This is especially true in adults. Do not neglect quinsy sore throat but make every effort to determine the underlying cause.

Length of Film Marriages Differ

Average About 20 Months If Gilberts Are Called Criterions.

HOLLYWOOD, May 2.—How long do Hollywood marriages last?

If the four marriages of John Gilbert, sued yesterday for divorce by Virginia Bruce, can be taken as a criterion, the average marriage lasts about 20 months. Gilbert's first marriage to Olivia Burwell lasted less than a year. He was married to Leatrice Joy for 26 months, to Ina Claire for 17 months, to Miss Bruce for 18 months.

Corinne Griffith and Walter Morosco, who were divorced yesterday in Juarez, Mex., were married nearly 10 years.

Richard Bennett, the veteran screen and stage star, and Mrs. Bennett were married six years and nine months before she filed suit for separate maintenance here Monday.

Hollywood is not certain it should assume responsibility for the separation of Katharine Hepburn and Ludlow Smith.

If Hollywood can be blamed, however, it would be a matter of a little more than a year since Miss Hepburn established her first contact with the film colony.

GUN STUDIED

COLUMBUS, May 3.—On the theory that it may be the "mystery gun" that has been the object of a long search at Ohio Penitentiary, Warden Preston E. Thomas disclosed today that he is closely examining a 38-calibre automatic pistol dropped in flight near Conesville by the three convicts who escaped from the prison last Sunday.

Examination of the weapon, which was found after a gun duel between the escaped prisoners and a posse in the swamp area near Conesville, was being conducted as authorities on the trail of the fugitives were pushing their search near Marquand Mills.

Short sermons, good music, and a friendly spirit will make people want to come back to your church, he said.

The June meeting of the ministerium will be a picnic affair, the place to be selected.

EXTEND LOAN DATE

The Pickaway-co farm bureau has received word from the federal credit administration that the seed loan period has been extended to May 15.

Farmers wishing to avail themselves of this loan should make application at once.

5 NAMED LIABLE FOR BIG SHORTAGE

COUNTY DADS TO CONSULT OTHERS

Intend to Make No Hasty Decision on FERA; Projects Are Progressing.

The county commissioners decided Wednesday afternoon to consult commissioners of other counties concerning the Federal Emergency Relief administration and its operation before deciding what to do concerning this county. They realize the importance of their decision and intend to make a study of all angles before taking action.

Ernie Weiler, named by E. O. Braught, state relief commissioner, to succeed A. J. Dunkel, was on the job today.

He reported the Logan Elm project will soon be finished, the north end sewer will be completed within a week and that a canal project to make improvements west of the city started Thursday.

The hospital project is well in hand, he said, with the walks completed.

J. H. Drum, food distributor, reported the following facts concerning food handed out in this county for the first four months of the year: cheese, 500 pounds; lard, 1,350 pounds; eggs, 97,520; fresh beef, 21,300 pounds; milk wheats, 7,240 pounds; flour, 21,050 pounds; butter, 6,450 pounds; salt pork, 5,000 pounds; smoked pork, 30,722.

Treasure on Ocean Bed

Of all lost treasure lying on the ocean bed, the largest single mass of gold specie is the $150,000,000 worth of coin in Vigo bay, off the Spanish coast, which went down with the 40 vessels of the Spanish Plate fleet of 1702.

ROBLES ABDUCTION SHOWDOWN NEAR

TUCSON, Ariz., May 3.—A showdown in the kidnaping of June Robles is imminent. With the truce entered into by all law enforcement agencies to permit full and free contact with her family expiring at midnight, developments were believed near today.

It was learned that department of justice agents are prepared to step into the investigation again at a moment's notice providing "developments warrant."

While the nature of the expected developments was not explained it was believed to be connected with asserted secret negotiations in Mexico for the return of the six-year-old child now missing eight days.

Although Bernabee Robles, aged grandfather of little June, upon whom the demand for $15,000 ransom was made, remained at his home here "awaiting developments," one of his trusted agents was in Mexico on a mystery mission.

CLAYTON CHALFIN
CITY LOAN MANAGER

Our Loan No. 18-6062—was "let out" of a position that he had filled for over 10 years. During that time he had dealt with The City Loan several times, so his loan credit was established. After six months of worry and short rations, he finally persuaded a food-products concern to let him become a solicitor. This required a cash bond of $300, so he came to his old friend, The City Loan and borrowed $225, using the extra amount to improve his appearance and tide him over. He made good at his work, and is paying his debt every week to cut down the interest.

WASH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Win Back Pep...Vigor...Vitality

Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. They should pour out thru the bladder 3 pints of fluid a day which contains 4 pounds of waste matter. If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbago, swollen feet, backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbago, swollen feet, backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality. If kidneys don't empty 3 pints every day and get rid of 4 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons causing serious trouble. It may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS. A doctor's prescription...which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes. But don't take chances with strong drugs or so-called "kidney cures" that claim to fix you up in 15 minutes. Your common sense will tell you that this is impossible. Treatments of this nature may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues. Insist on DOAN'S PILLS...the old reliable relief that contain no "poison" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-Milburn Co.

"BIG TEN" DISPUTES GRID PRACTICE DATE

CHICAGO, May 3.—Beautiful friendships are threatened and the very existence of the Big Ten itself is wavering today on the brink of a little dispute the gentlemen are having over the relatively important matter of early fall football practice.

The infuriated gentlemen will lend credence to this disclosure by denying it, of course, but from a reliable source we learn that war clouds are gathering and everything among the brotherhood is not so ducky as it should be among those engaged in the construction of men of tomorrow.

RESENT EACH OTHER

In fact, the gentlemen are so busy resenting one another these days that they have even neglected to find any new resentment for the professional footballers. It takes a heap of resentment to bring about this condition.

Briefly, the situation is somewhat as follows: At Michigan, Ohio State, Chicago, Wisconsin and Minnesota classes open on or about October 1. At Illinois, Purdue, Indiana, Northwestern and Iowa classes open anywhere from September 10 to 20.

This schedule for opening classes is all very commensurate with the spirit of camaraderie except for the fact that football practice begins on September 15. In other words the young men at the first named schools are not annoyed with book learning until Oct. 1 and can devote an unlimited amount of time for two weeks.

WEEK WOULD COST

At the other institutions, the lads find that improving the intellect is a serious impediment to football and they can play only two hours a day. To remedy the situation it was suggested that football practice open on Sept. 10, but this only served to further irritate the embattled brethren. They insisted that the cost of keeping young men with football appetites an extra week would be too great.

And so there the matter stands.

Tries Comeback

"BANK 'TEX' LEONARD
After being dethroned as Buckeye conference pole vault champion last year, Frank "Tex" Leonard, Ohio Wesleyan ace, is seeking to regain his title in this year's meet, to be held at Delaware May 25 and 26.
Leonard established a new record of 12 feet, 7 inches in the Buckeye meet two years ago, but lost out to Earl Black, Miami, in last year's meet. Black set a new record of 13 feet at the time.
The Ohio Wesleyan star consistently gets over 12 feet and unless injuries hamper his performance on May 25 and 26 he may attain the 13-foot mark.

About This And That

BY THE SECOND GUESSER

Although the recreation ball season does not officially open until Monday the Southern Ohio Electric Co. field is filled every evening with ball players trying to get in condition—Members of the Mecca and the Ralston-Purina teams had the field Wednesday evening and members of the Circleville Oil team have been called to practice tonight—The fact that the Oils are working out doesn't mean that members of other teams cannot appear on the field—There is plenty of room for all who want to practice ***

The Oils play the fast Columbus Plank Bakers, Sunday, in the first regular game on the new field—An effort will be made to have a fence, backstop, bases, etc., ready for play ***

The final meeting of the league managers and captains is scheduled Friday evening in The Herald office with final details to be worked out ***

Good old Johnny Hodapp, whom we contend will be a star of stars in the American association as his throwing arm responds to treatment, came through with a timely swat Wednesday to win a ball game for the Birds—With two men on base he lashed a line single into left field driving the winning run over the plate, the Birds winning 5-4 from Toledo's fighting Mudhens ***

The Milwaukee Brewers are in town today for the first of a three game series—It closes Saturday with the Minneapolis Millers, leading the league, invading the bill- wick Sunday ***

Arabs Skilled Workmen
The Arabs were practical artificers and manufacturers. They fashioned beautiful objects from gold, silver, copper, bronze, iron and steel. In the famous Damascus blade they produced something that only modern alloy steel can match. In the treatment of textile fabrics the modern manufacturer finds it hard to surpass them. They processed leather, dyed cloth and manufactured paper.

PINCH HIT WINS

COLUMBUS, May 3.—After breaking even in the four-game Toledo series by defeating the Mud Hens yesterday, 5 to 4, the Columbus Red Birds were to meet the Milwaukee Brewers here today in the first of a three-game series.
Two smashing home runs, with a man on base each time, by Harry Davis, Toledo first baseman, accounted for the four Toledo runs. A single by Johnny Hodapp, who was pinch hitting for O'Dea, in the eighth inning scored Mickey Heath with the Red Birds' winning run.

PERRY-TWP SCHOOL NEWS

Seventh and Eighth Grades
Those in the seventh grade who have been present all year are Neal Wright, Anna Lee Hott, Martha Downing, Faye Dell, Hollis Ruth Zimmerman, Ruth Bentley and those in the eighth grade are Ruth Reisinger and Howard Betts.
One of the principal articles which were exhibited by the seventh and eighth grades was a graph for the spelling which was given in agriculture. The final outcome of the spelling left the police dogs with an almost perfect record. The police dogs were followed by the bull dogs then the bird dogs, hounds and rat terriers.

High School
The freshman English students enjoyed a debate in scientific lines on Monday of this week. The subject was "Resolved—Environment plays a greater part on ones life than heredity." Those on the affirmative team were Martha Donahoe, Martha French, and Bettigene Campbell. Those on the negative were Ray Creighton and Herbert Lamb. Eddie Keaton the third member of the team being absent. The judges voted unanimously for the affirmative team.

The home economic class prepared a very palatial banquet Tuesday evening as a close for the years work. Besides the twelve members of the class their teacher Miss Oglesbee and Miss Hauman were seated at the table. The following is the menu: Swiss steak, mashed potatoes, gravy, green beans, pickles and lime salad with fudge cake and ice cream.

Freshmen and a few other students were given Winston word-a-day manuals. Mr. Costlow believes that this plan will be of great assistance in adding new words to the vocabulary of the student.

The P. T. A. was held last Thursday night in the high school auditorium. The best handwriting of the pupils was exhibited by the teachers. The program of which the teachers were in charge was enjoyed immensely by all. Music was furnished by Mr. Hickman and his band of Lancaster. Rev. Tucker of Clarksburg gave a short talk on "This Fast Changing World." As this was the last meeting of the year officers for the following year were elected. Coyt Cleary was elected president and Mrs. Homer Wright and Miss Chilcote were retained as treasurer and secretary respectively.

Pardoning Power of President
Pardoning power of the President extends only to federal prisoners and he does not have Constitutional power to pardon state prisoners. This power lies only with the governor or the pardoning board of each individual state.

Rain Is Forecast In Drought Area

CHICAGO, May 3.—Fervent hopes for rain to relieve widespread drought conditions prevailing all over the great agricultural areas of the country are likely to be answered this week.

Forecasters C. A. Donnel of the weather bureau here today said that indications all over the corn and wheat region, 15 states in the central and north central portions of the country, were for local showers in all these states with a more generous downpour in Illinois.

Pain relief so badly needed after the driest April on record in many communities, will come in time only to save part of the crops which have already been damaged to the extent of many millions of dollars. A continuously dry winter followed with a show-widespread to the growers of crops, has made gardening backward and ruined much truck cropping. Plowing has been handicapped by dusty, dry soil.

The intense drought condition has resulted in destructive prairie fires. Water shortages threaten several cities.

Under the certainty of short crops of wheat, corn and small grains, prices are rising.

Further deterioration of the winter wheat crop through the prevailing drought conditions seems certain even if showers come to the rescue, observers stated. Estimates of crop experts as of May 1 indicate a winter wheat crop of 435,000,000 bushels as compared with their original forecast of 506,000,000 bushels.

Cookies From Your Refrigerator

How are rich tea cookies made? They are rich and rather expensive to buy ready to serve. Have you asked that very question? Plain, drop cookie recipes can meet the requirements of richness and goodness if the mixture is chilled thoroughly ahead of time, and kept cold until the cookies are placed in the oven. Save a space in your refrigerator for the chilled cookie dough, and when guests drop in you can greet them gayly, knowing that a few minutes baking will give them delights from the kitchen.

Dough that has warmed up to room temperature requires more flouring for working than dough that has been kept chilled, so chilling has a double advantage—it increases crispness in the finished product and makes the dough easily handled in the raw state.

Chocolate Drop Cookies

For chocolate drop cookies, drop the batter on a greased cookie sheet by teaspoonfuls with the dough piled in upstanding mounds. With the oven set at the proper temperature and preheated, the cookies do not melt and flatten out in baking.

1 C. sugar 1/4 C. nuts
1/2 C. shortening 1/4 C. raisins
2 eggs, well beaten 2 tsp. baking powder
3 sq. chocolate
2 C. flour 1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. vanilla 1/2 C. sweet milk

Cream the shortening and add the sugar. Add eggs and melted chocolate. Then add milk, vanilla, nuts and chopped raisins. Mix well. Add baking powder and flour. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a greased pan and bake at 375 degrees for 10 minutes.

Swedish Cookies

Swedish Cookies are especially dainty for refreshments. When sliced, they may be decorated attractively with bits of candied cherry, angelica or citron, chopped nuts, colored sugar or decorates.

1 C. sugar 1 egg, well beaten
2 C. butter 1 tsp. vanilla
4 C. sifted, prepared cake flour

Sift the flour once, measure and sift again. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Add flour, a small amount at a time, mixing thoroughly after each addition. Add vanilla and blend. Shape into 2 rolls, 1 1/2 inch in diameter, and chill overnight or until firm enough to slice. Bake on an ungreased cookie sheet in a hot oven (400 degrees) for four to five minutes. Makes 5 dozen cookies.

Fig Surprises

3 1/2 C. sifted pastry flour
4 C. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 C. butter or other shortening
1 C. sifted brown sugar
1 egg, well beaten
1 tsp. vanilla
1/2 C. milk

Sift the flour once, measure, add baking powder, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually and cream until light and fluffy. Add egg and vanilla, then flour and milk alternately, a small amount at a time. Beat until smooth. Chill until firm enough to roll. Roll 1/4 inch thick. Cut with a 2 1/2 inch cutter. Put 1 tsp. fig filling on a cut out cookie, place another cut ring on top and press the edges together. Bake at 425 degrees for 6 to 8 minutes. Makes 4 dozen cookies.

WATER ORDINANCE VOTED BY COUNCIL

President's Radio Talk Expected to End Confusion About Aims

WASHINGTON—A Presidential sunning up of the New Deal program, how far it has gone and where it is headed, is scheduled soon, if Roosevelt's closest friends have their say.

It has been some time now since the President went on the air in one of his intimate talks to the Nation, and his advisers think that no time is more opportune than the present.

Many people have been disconcerted by the Wall Street attack on the Securities Act, the Stock Market Bill and other reform measures. Congress has become a bit unruly, the President's "veto" particularly so. Some people are wondering whether Roosevelt is abandoning part of his program, are confused by all the spokesmen who pretend to speak for the President.

To have the aims of the New Deal outlined once again by the one man responsible for them is essential, and as a result, Roosevelt probably will go on the air before Congress adjourns.

Statesman's Vote

Consider how casually is conducted this grave business of law making:

The Senate was in the midst of a major vote on one of the air-mail questions. Senator Copeland, New York's red-carnationed physician-statesman, voted "aye." Then, while the roll still was being called, he ambled over to a seat beside Senator Pat McCarran of Nevada, also interested in the bill.

Senator McCarran was just voting "nay." Senator Copeland, with an air of surprise, ventured: "I thought you were in favor of this."

"No, I'm not. I'm opposed to the whole idea."

"Well, well, well," quoth Copeland, rising to his feet and addressing the chair: "Mr. President, I change my vote from 'aye' to 'nay.' I voted under a misapprehension."

Fluid Milk

The all-important question of milk—its curtailed production or its increase—continues unsettled.

Originally Secretary Henry Wallace and his Agricultural Adjustment administrators went in for a strict system of milk control, including production and distribution.

Against this there was terrific rebellion. One revolt came from within Wallace's organization, led by the Consumers' Council which pointed out that millions of children were without sufficient milk, that the country needed more milk instead of less.

The other revolt came from that all-powerful of dairy organizations—the National Co-operative Milk Producers Association.

But having won its point, the latter organization is in revolt again. Charles Holman, high-pressure lobbyist, its Washington representative, has been showing obvious signs of worry.

The trouble is this: When the Milk Producers' Association urged no control of milk, it was winter. Production was at a low ebb. Now Spring is here. Milk production has gone up—way up. And with maximum output, prices soon may fall.

When that happens, there is no amount of explanation either by Holman, Henry Wallace, or anyone else which can appease the dairyman's wrath, and there is likely to be a revival of demand for milk production control.

"POWER FRANCHISE PERMANENT"—Bricker

DECISION MADE UPON REQUEST OF PROS. DAVIS

Attorney General Cites Number of Cases in Higher Courts

SOUGHT BY COUNCIL

May Have Effect on Municipal Effort

An opinion that may have a decided effect on action toward municipal ownership of an electric power plant in Circleville was read in council meeting, Wednesday evening by Solicitor Carl C. Leist. It was the ruling of Attorney General John W. Bricker on the question: "Does the Southern Ohio Electric Co. have an indeterminate franchise in Circleville?"

His ruling was "Yes." The opinion was referred to Solicitor Leist by Prosecuting Attorney Ray W. Davis to whom it was rendered after Davis had written Mr. Bricker at the request of Mr. Leist. Councilman-at-large Ben H. Gordon had requested Mr. Leist to seek the opinion.

WOULD BE COMPETITIVE

It is believed that since the power company has a franchise which is permanent, according to Bricker's ruling, the chances of the city having its own electric plant constructed are lessened. The power company would provide competition for the municipal plant under the set-up existing under Bricker's decision.

There is nothing "in the books," however, to prevent construction of a municipal plant.

Council received the report of the solicitor and instructed him to place a copy of it on file.

The communication follows: "I acknowledge receipt of your communication in which you inquired as to whether a franchise granted a public utility by a municipality which is not expressly limited as to the time it should terminate, is a permanent franchise."

"The supreme court of this state has consistently held that such a franchise is terminable at the will of either party. See Gasoline Co. v. Akron, 81 Ohio State, 33; N. O. T. & L. Co. v. State ex rel, 93 Ohio State, 468; Ohio Service Co. v. State, 113 Ohio State, 325. However, in the cases which have been taken to the United States supreme court it has been held that such a franchise, in the absence of any statutory or constitutional limitations or court decisions of the state prior to the execution of the franchise is perpetual."

GRANTED IN 1891

"The franchise concerning which you inquire was granted in 1891 when there was no statutory or constitutional provisions limiting the time during which such franchise could run. Louisville v. Telephone Co., 224 U. S. 649; Owensboro v. Telephone Co., 220 U. S. 58; N. O. T. & L. Co. v. State ex rel, 245 U. S. 574; Ohio Service Co. v. State, 274 U. S. 12. It would seem therefore that the franchise concerning which you inquire would be a permanent franchise."

Very truly Yours,

John W. Bricker,

Attorney General.

Materials From Boggs and Schleyer Properties May Construct City Jail

Possibility that Circleville may yet construct a city jail was seen today after it was declared the city could obtain bricks, windows, and other materials from the Hotel Boggs and the Hohen-Schleyer properties when they are dismantled to make room for a federal building.

It was reported in council, Wednesday evening, that the FERA will raze the buildings and give the salvaged materials to the city if council will

ARMED GUARDS TO ACCOMPANY OHIO'S CHIEF

White Agrees to Protection Until Dillinger Scare Ends

THREATS ARE BARED

Highway Patrolmen to Trail His Auto

COLUMBUS, May 3.—Yielding to the insistent appeals of his daughter, Miss Mary Louise White and members of his official family, Governor George White has agreed to be accompanied by armed guards on all out-of-town trips until the "Dillinger scare" is over, it was learned here today.

For some time the governor has been under partial guard following the receipt of threats against his life and that of his daughter unless the three Dillinger associates convicted recently at Lima for the first degree murder of Sheriff Jess Sarber, were released from the Ohio Penitentiary where they now are incarcerated.

TAKE PRECAUTION

Although the governor regarded the threats lightly, members of his official family and his daughter were persistent that every precaution should be taken to safeguard the life of the state's chief executive.

Hereafter, two state highway patrolmen, armed with a machine gun, will ride in another automobile about 250 feet behind the governor's car on all his trips. The guard followed the governor for the first time last night to assist in the ceremonies attending dedication of Radio Station WLW.

The governor, who has repeatedly scoffed at reports that Dillinger might kidnap him or his daughter, Miss Mary White, still believes such a possibility is very remote.

"There is only one chance in a thousand that Dillinger would try to do anything to me," he said, pointing out that he had agreed to being placed under guard only at the insistence of members of his cabinet.

TWO AT MANSION

No additional guards will be stationed at the executive mansion in Columbus, and the governor will not be accompanied by guards when he is in the city, he said. Two guards are stationed at the mansion every night.

White believes there is little possibility that the Dillinger gang would attempt to strike against Miss White. "They don't know where she is all the time, like they know about me," he said.

Federal Men Think Ford Was Parked in Chicago Street By Confederate.

ST. PAUL, Minn., May 3.—Federal agents in this district who have been working night and day to run down John "Toy Gun" Dillinger, believe the Indiana killer planted the stolen Ford car in which he and his henchmen escaped from Mercer, Wis., in Chicago yesterday to throw his pursuers off the track.

Dillinger, the agents here pointed out, is crafty and they say the idea he ought to have abandoned his car on the streets in Chicago where it would certainly be found soon. They believe some members of the Dillinger mob or some of his trusted friends drove the car to Chicago and deliberately left the clues in it which enabled police to identify it as the car Dillinger had used.

Evidence that agents here believe Dillinger is still in the Twin Cities or immediate vicinity was unfounded last night when a crew of heavily armed federal agents closed in on a house in Minneapolis which they had been guarding for a couple of days. They searched the house thoroughly but found no trace of Dillinger or anyone connected with him.

International News Service learned that the address of the house was obtained from a telegram sent to Chicago. Federal agents refused information concerning the telegram but it is known that a woman sent it and that she is being closely shadowed.

Mrs. Dewey was still alive when her daughter reached her but she died two hours later in a Chillicothe hospital.

Dewey was well-known throughout this region. He was the proprietor of one of the largest general stores in this section.

COUNCIL TAKES ACTION TO END 'BOOTLEGGING'

Ordinance Passed Setting Heavy Penalty for Illegal Liquor

ASKS POLICE ACTION

Legislation Cooperates With State's Effort

An ordinance designed to coordinate local and state liquor traffic, as advocated by E. G. Matthews, head of the enforcement division of the Ohio department of liquor control, was passed after third reading by council Wednesday evening.

Money derived from the ordinance goes entirely to the general fund of the city if the arrest and conviction are accomplished under the ordinance.

Persons manufacturing or selling, transporting, importing non-intoxicating beer, wine, spirituous liquors or alcohol fit for beverage purposes in violation of the General Code of Ohio would be deemed guilty of a misdemeanor. All persons holding a license issued by the state department of liquor control and not displaying it conspicuously in their places of business would also be guilty of a misdemeanor. The ordinance also specifies that holders of a permit to transport liquor must display a photostatic copy of this permit on or within the conveyance being used for the transportation of liquor. Absence of such display would likewise be a misdemeanor.

CITES CERTIFICATE

The ordinance provides that a proper certificate signed by the director of the department shall be prima facie evidence that no permit has been issued to the persons specified therein or that a permit has been issued to the person or persons and has been revoked, cancelled or suspended.

The council determined that violators of the first part of the ordinance, that dealing with handling without a license, is punishable by a fine of $100 to $1,000 and 30 days to six months in jail, or both.

If the permit holder does not have license displayed he is subject to fine of from $25 to $100 and the same fine prevails for failure to a photostatic copy in a vehicle license for transportation.

Nothing in the ordinance is to be construed as preventing a bona fide resident of a municipality from manufacturing and possessing in his own home non-intoxicating beer, wine and for his own consumption and not for the purpose of sale or transportation.

HITS BOOTLEGGERS

It is believed this ordinance will go far in the elimination of the bootlegger. Council urged that members of the city police department begin a drive against known bootleggers in the city.

Solicitor Carl C. Leist was instructed to draw an ordinance ordering that sale of intoxicating liquor be halted at 12 o'clock midnight. Council does not plan to pass the ordinance at once because there is only one restaurant in the city selling whiskey and the proprietor of that place is abiding strictly by the law. The ordinance will probably be held in reserve for use at any time it may be needed.

HEETER DIVORCE

A divorce action has been filed in common pleas court with George Heeter and Ellen M. Heeter as principals. The former is the plaintiff in the action today.

He says they were married on Oct. 10, 1914 and she divorced him in 1924. They married again in 1927, this petition declares, and lived together until 1931 when she filed another divorce action which was dismissed after hearing in court.

Mr. Heeter charges the defendant with gross neglect of duty, extreme cruelty, and willful absence. He says he has suffered much anguish because of her actions.

Custody of two children is asked besides divorce. Adkins and Adkins represent Mr. Heeter.

ENTERS HOSPITAL

Mrs. Samuel Hawkes, E. Franklin-st., was taken to Grant hospital, Columbus, Wednesday for observation. She was expected to return to her home today.

Violation of Traffic Laws Cost Two Bucks

Hear ye, traffic law violators! The fine for first offense is now $2, so beware of violations.

7 ARRESTED AS VIOLATORS OF GAME LAW

Francis In Action; Three Pay Fines, Two Jailed, Two More Called.

Max Rader and Frank Reichelderfer pleaded not guilty, Thursday, to taking fish illegally and gave $200 bond each for trial May 14. Severed Squire H. O. Eveland.

Seven alleged game law violators were taken into custody Wednesday evening by Game Protector Clarence Francis for "rigging" fish in Deer creek, near Williamsport.

Floyd Warner, Harry Stonerock, and C. A. Hastings, all of Williamsport, paid fines of $25 and costs to Squire H. O. Eveland, Thursday; Roy and Henry Mahoney also of Williamsport, were fined $25 and costs each and committed to jail, and Max Rader and Frank Reichelderfer, both of Jackson-twp, were ordered to report in Eveland's office Thursday afternoon.

Francis arrested the Mahoneys and Hastings at the Pennsylvania railroad bridge at Woodlyn with seven suckers and one black bass in their possession. A flashlight and two gigs were confiscated and the fish were taken to the Home and Hospital, this city. The arrests were made about 9 p. m.

Warner, Stonerock, and Reichelderfer were caught on Deer creek north of Williamsport, at the mouth of Dry Run. They had gigs, lanterns and fine mesh chicken wiring on a raffle there, Francis charged.

Warns Hog Owners

A warning was issued to hog owners living within the city limits, Thursday, by Mayor W. B. Cady. All pens must be sanitary and must not give off an offensive odor or arrest attention by the official declared.

A state inspector will be in this city in a few days so immediate action is imperative.

WHAT... COUNCIL... DID

Heard a report on financial balances by Finance Chairman Ben Gordon. The following funds were available May 1 with a distribution of taxes due in a week or 10 days: General, $2,985.99; library, $2,627.16; auto license, $3,204.02; gasoline tax, $463.67; Berger hospital, $2,895.40.

Filed the report of Mayor Cady that fines, fees and licenses collected during April amounted to $33, $8.70 and $5, respectively, a total of $46.70.

Filed a report of Safety Director Shaner that receipts at Berger hospital in April amounted to $926.

Received a complaint from Pearl Gray that his property on the Lancaster-pk is encroached upon by the new road. Took no action.

Approved the recommendation of service committee chairman, Frank Baker, that the sewer serving the Weldon Weaver and T. Gardner properties, S. Court-st., be taken over by the city as per request of the property owners.

Referred the sale of the motorcycle owned by the police department to the safety committee with power to act.

Heard a request of Highland-ave residents, through Councilman Leist, that a light be placed on that street. It is possible the city will co-operate with the highway department on this request.

SMALL SLASH HELPS USERS; HYDRANTS CUT

Ten Cents Slashed off Minimum Charge in 3-Year Contract

APPROVED BY ALL

Plant Purchase Discussed by Gordon

Circleville finally has a water ordinance.

Tiring of continued wrangling, discussion and conferences, council entered a three year contract with the Ohio Water Service Co., Wednesday evening. It is the first ordinance the city has had with the utility for at least 10 years.

Every person who pays a water bill is slightly benefited by the ordinance since the new rate is a minimum per quarter, 10 cents per quarter lower than that now being paid. The reduction is not a concession, but was the only concession the council could get from W. A. Dark, water company official. Previously agreed-upon reduction in return for the slash which benefits all consumers council got up 10 per cent of the proposed 20 per cent reduction for private sprinkler systems.

HYDRANTS REDUCED

The new rate for fire hydrants is $40 for each of 163 hydrants. It has been $55 each. This ordinance is dated back to January 1, 1931, subject to approval of water company executives.

The new consumption rates reads: 45 cents per 100 cubic feet for the first 400 cubic feet per quarter; 35 cents per next 30,000 cubic feet; 15 cents per 100 cubic feet for the next 100 cubic feet and 7 1/2 cents per 100 cubic feet for all over 100 cubic feet. With the ordinance the first step of the ordinance is unchanged.

The bills can be rendered quarterly or quarterly rendered to the city of the utility.

The new price for sprinkler systems will be $3.10 per 1,000 feet of floor space compared to $3.20 now paid. There are six private sprinkler systems in use in the city. They are at the Continental Corporation of America, the Wheatman Milling Co., Goeller Brothers factory, Winor, Sears-Nichols and Esmeralda canning factories.

Private fire hydrant rental was also reduced from $55 to $47 monthly and private hose connections from $27.50 to $23.50.

Council unanimously passed the ordinance.

HAS PURCHASE CLAUSE

The legislation includes a clause which says that after two years the city will have the opportunity to purchase the plant with a price to be set by mutual agreement.

The ordinance came after council had recessed for discussion with Mr. Dark. An ordinance reducing sprinkler systems and fire hydrants had been agreed upon several months ago but there was considerable clamor for a reduction in the rate for the consumer so that council did not approve the ordinance. Mr. Dark, chairman of the ordinance committee, asked Mr. Dark to attend the meeting to try to work out some other solution.

The first question asked the utility representatives was: "Can you give us more water under the first bracket?" (This is the $1.90 per quarter cost where 400 cubic feet of water is allowed.) Dark's answer was an emphatic "No."

There was considerable discussion over this answer with the water company official standing by his guns. During the questioning Councilman Ben Gordon asked Mr. Dark why the water company did not set a price for sale of the plant to the city. Dark asked if the city could buy it to which Gordon replied "At the right price." Dark said his company had never set a price on the plant because it had never found anyone who wanted it and had enough money to buy it.

NOW TWO ORDINANCES

The city now has ordinances with two of its utilities, water and electric companies. A statement exists as far as the gas company and the city reaching an agreement is concerned, the present ordinance having expired in March, 1930.

RAISE PILOT FOR LANDING

YORK, May 3.—Pilot of Chicago was congratulated today for his skill and courage he displayed in landing a fully loaded Concor plane on a narrow beach during a rain storm last night.

Freedom Bent?

Report from Yucatan, Mexico, says that Mrs. Ludlow Smith filed suit for divorce in Merida. Mrs. Smith is best known to Americans as Katharine Hepburn, screen star. Her husband, Ludlow Ogden Smith, is a New York financial expert.

pilot, was bound for Newark airport from Buffalo, but the fog and rain prevented him from finding the field and he was forced to alight on the beach near Tottenville, Staten island, when his gas supply ran low.

There were fifteen passengers aboard the plane and a second pilot and a stewardess.

Harry E. Wurst of Buffalo, one of the passengers, was the only occupant of the plane to suffer injury and his hurts were entirely superficial.

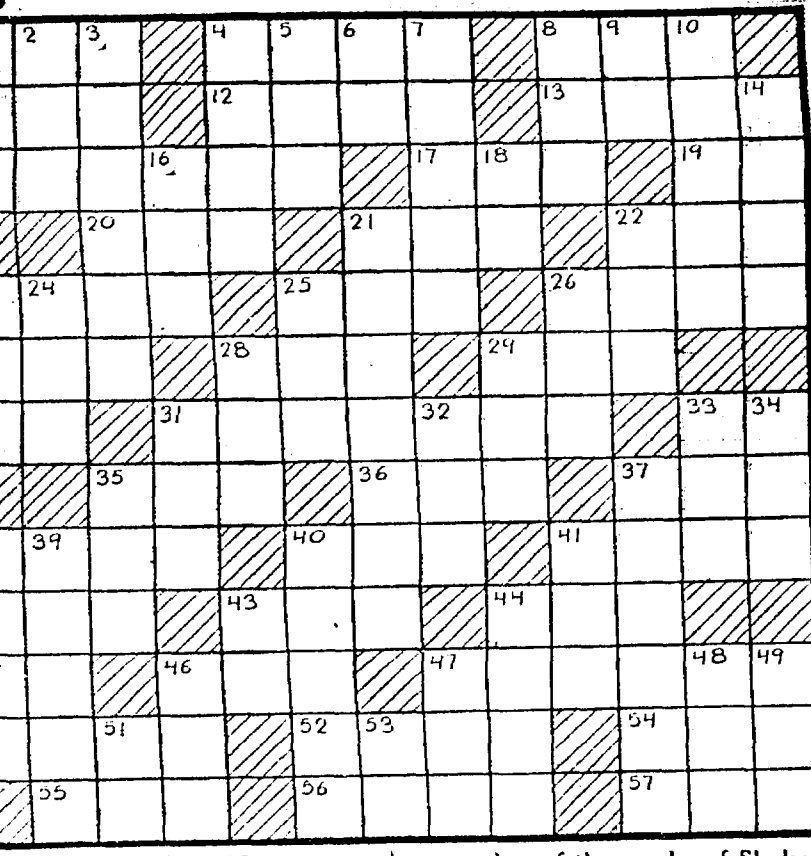

The passengers included M. J. Kuttler, South Bend, Ind., L. B. Spencer, K. C. West Welland, Ontario, Canada; C. T. Fiskien, Detroit; M. A. Combs, Montclair, N. J.; Harold Massie, Hackensack, N. J.; George McNiece, Newark, N. J.; H. R. Hennings, Princeton, N. J.; and Sidney Hessehaire, Montclair, N. J. The co-pilot of the plane was Daniel Boone and the stewardess Margaret M. Aldrich, both of Chicago.

Wurst said when he decided to fly around a bit in the hope of finding a break in the heavy weather. Several flares were dropped from the ship, which showed a narrow strip of sandy beach beneath them. He then told the passengers a forced landing would be necessary, and advised them to adjust their safety belts. The passengers appeared quite calm, Wurst said.

Good "Beaver Money"
During the heyday of the fur trade many years ago, beaver skins passed as money. They had an established rating across the continent and as far east as the Atlantic coast of approximately four dollars for an average raw skin, says Nature Magazine. Following the transfer from hand to hand of the skins themselves other currency such as small stones or bits of metal, each bearing a crude drawing of a beaver and the initials or mark of a well-known trader and representing an actual skin lying in some storehouse, passed freely among traders and Indians.

Many Elective Offices To Be Filled In Ohio

COLUMBUS, May 3.—Seldom, if ever, have Ohioans been called upon to elect so many members of the state supreme court at a single election as they will next November when they will choose five justices. There are seven on the supreme court bench.

Deaths and resignations brought on the present unusual situation. The justices whose posts are in jeopardy are Howard L. Bevis, (D) Cincinnati; Charles B. Zimmerman (D) Springfield, and Robert N. Wilkin (D) Dover.

Bevis was appointed by Gov. George White last May to succeed Judge Reynolds R. Kinkade, who resigned. Kinkade's term would have expired on Dec. 31,

The Modern Atlas

ATLAS no longer supports the civilized world.

Rather, the burden rests upon the supple shoulders of a flexible, muscular young giant; a tawny, swift-moving youth known as Electricity.

He stands with feet firmly planted at the opposite poles while coursing through his body, from negative to positive, flows the greatest force known to mankind today.

Some call it white coal; some call it a natural phenomenon; others call it indefinable force.

Call it what one will, it is the thing today which hurries voices and music around the world; which turns the motors of the industries which have made America a great nation; pulls long trains laden with human freight and valuable merchandise; lights the greatest city and the smallest hamlet.

It is the thing which is taking industry out of the housewife's daily tasks. It is the thing which enables science to see the inside of the human body and other things. It is the power which courses through the veins of the world today, every bit as necessary as the red blood which flows through the circulatory system of the human body.

No one catastrophe could befall the world today which would be more paralyzing or more devastating in its effect than the sudden loss of the natural phenomenon called electricity. Man can hardly conceive of modern civilization continuing without this beneficent force.

Do you know why a man is called a hero until you hear his name for saving the country?

Suppressing Quacks

In every profession there are those who indulge in practices that are regarded as unethical by the group. Formerly it was left to the state to punish these practitioners, but there is a growing tendency for professional men to protect their ranks from those who prove unworthy of public confidence.

It is commendable to see the medical profession, which for some years has been in need of trimming at the edges, making use of this means of eliminating quacks. That the profession is self-purifying is evidence of the high level of its standards as a whole.

Recently a county medical society suspended from its membership an alienist who had given questionable testimony in a number of important murder cases.

Subsequently the state society suspended the action of the county society officially ostracizing the physician from his profession. It was held that public confidence in the medical profession was being weakened by such testimony as the offending specialist gave.

Neither the medical profession nor society can afford to have the suspicion abroad that the profession is venal. Public confidence in the word and skill of medical practitioners is essential. Were it shattered it would amount to a catastrophe. Depend upon it, the doctors will see to it that no such catastrophe befalls mankind.

If you see well-dressed idlers out in the streets, they are "getting government money."

What's in a name? Well, for many players it is the only difference between auction and contract.

Of course America is independent, except for coffee, tea, rubber, tin and a few little things like that.

No wonder the world suffers. It takes a tough guy to get well if he is taking the medicine of 17 doctors.

SYNOPSIS

After three years' travel in Europe, where she had gone following her father's death, young and beautiful Stanley Paige became bored and returned to New York to find the "something sort of sweet and important" which she felt she was missing. Stanley finds Perry Devereux, handsome young lawyer, still as much in love with her as ever, but her own heart is untouched. She longs for someone to love—someone to really belong to. Then she meets the fascinating Drew Armitage. It is love at sight. Drew's most recent heart had been sophisticated Dennis St. John. In breaking with her, he said: "You know, Dennis, you're a lot like me—you know when a thing is ended and you accept it—graciously." Ned Wingate informs Stanley that the latter's lawyer, Charles Carleton, has been playing the market heavily and wonders if her funds are intact. Knowing that love to Stanley means marriage, Drew casually proposes. Realizing her extreme innocence, he regrets his flirtations past. Drew admits to Dennis that, although he is not marrying Stanley for her money, if she were poor he would have loved her just the same but... he would have the good sense to stay away from her. Then comes the crash and Stanley's fortune is lost. As long as she has Drew, the loss of the money means nothing to Stanley. Her castles crumble when he informs her it would be madness to attempt marriage on his income.

CHAPTER TWELVE

Stanley felt her fingers dragging at her lips. She was trembling again. Uncontrollably. She wished he would go. Quickly before she did something stupid. Before she flung herself in his arms and begged him to stay; before she beat his face with her clenched fists and told him she hated him. She sunk her nails into her clenched hands and set her teeth into her underlip to keep it from shaking.

"Aren't you going to say anything?" He frowned at her uncertainly. Like all men who were intimate with women he was afraid of emotional silences. He had felt he could depend on Stanley. That she would not go hysterical on him. She was not the emotional type that threatened to kill themselves when thwarted. But now he felt a bit uneasy. She had stared at him so long with those wide gray eyes, her mouth such a piteous shaken thing. Better to go now while things were not too complicated. Better to leave her while it was still possible. He decided suddenly not only to leave her, but to leave New York. To go back to Chicago. It would be kinder to both of them. And much safer.

"I'm going away," he told her, putting his decision into words. "I'm not coming back. You think I'm cruel now but you'll come to see that I'm really being kind. Try not to think too badly of me, Stanley. I shall never forget you, you know. And I shall always regret having hurt you—but never having loved you!"

He would go now. Quickly before anything happened to spoil that last speech. Gosh, but she looked beautiful, standing there, in those silly pajamas! It had certainly been a rotten break, Carleton's losing that money. He'd loved her, desired her, more than any other girl he'd ever known. Possessing her would have been a unique and unforgettable experience. It was rotten bad luck. He deliberated whether to kiss her again or not. Decided against it. That last kiss had been a total failure. He smiled at her honestly, compassionately. For a brief, fleeting second he was sorrier for her than for himself. Then, still feeling magnanimous, he turned and strode across the room.

He was going now. She watched him leave her. Watched him cross the long room. Watched him open the door. Then as suddenly and unexpectedly as he had come into her life, he had gone out of it—leaving her quite alone in Alita Lawson's charming, drawing room.

As abruptly as Stanley had flung herself face downward on the chintz divan, she jerked herself up. Her body was no longer shaken by those hard, punishing sobs, only her mouth remained demoralized. Her eyes were quite guiltless of tears. Her hands completely steady.

She stood up and walked swiftly out of the room. As she went she was very careful not to look at the place where Drew's cigarette lay, a limp, dead thing flung into a silver ash tray; was very careful not to look at the great bowl of golden roses he had sent that morning. But she was terribly aware of both of these things: the dead, gray ash of his cigarette, the golden fragrance of his roses.

She went out of the room and down the hall to her room where Ellen was waiting for her. But she ignored her old nurse's compassionate eyes, outstretched hands.

Ellen dressed her silently, laid out her flat, smooth purse, fresh suede gloves. Watched her pull on a tight little red hat, run a lipstick over her mouth, touch her cheeks with rouge. Watched her tuck the purse under her arm, pull on her gloves with steady fingers.

"Don't look so tragic, Ellen." She paused at the door, a faintly reassuring smile curving her stricken mouth. "I'm perfectly all right. And don't worry about me—nothing more can ever possibly happen to me!"

She felt the engine throb beneath her hands, pressed her foot harder on the accelerator and felt the long, low-slung car leap ahead, a sudden cream-colored streak, in a long line of orange and red taxis, sleek dark town cars and roaring trucks. A light changed and she jammed on her brakes, holding the high-powered car back as one would restrain a restive thoroughbred, releasing it with a roar when the signal changed. A young policeman looked after her with half-admiring, half-concerned eyes. "She's desperate—that one," he thought to himself, "when they drive like that—they don't give a damn—and she's pretty, too. I wonder what's busted her up so?"

with baby carriages, amusement parks, country clubs, then—as the sun swung lower in the west—fewer towns, more hills, open country at last.

And as she tore along the road, with the world flashing by her on each side like huge colored slides from an enormous magic lantern, so her thoughts tore through her mind, quick, clear fragments, swiftly moving, ever changing, now as bright and gay and flaunting as a jade filling station, now as gray and hard and inescapable as a stone wall. The scarlet evening gown that Drew had insisted on her buying because scarlet burned up the aloofness in her gray eyes... the scent of apple blossoms at dawn, that had been a mad, sweet hour... the twang of a violin in a little Russian restaurant... the soft break of the ocean against hard, warm sand... Drew's eyes telling her dear, foolish, impossible things in a crowd... Drew's mouth crushed in sweet abandon against her own after hours of hunger... Drew's arms flung about her shoulders, the feel of rough tweed beneath her cheek, the rumple of his dark hair between her fingers. His voice, a shaken whisper close to her ear... "Oh, Stanley, you're beautiful... You're so slender and white, so terrifyingly sweet." Or perhaps in a lighter, less intense mood—"You know, darling, I wake up a dozen times in the night and reach for you—you're always there, awake or asleep—always in my arms." Or, "I'm jealous of your eyelashes, Stanley, they're like two shielding little shadows, always falling down over your eyes so I can't see what you're thinking about."

Then blotting all this out, squeezing it flat like a hand crushed about a trembling butterfly—the tense hard line of Drew's jaw, the dark frown between his eyes, the stiffening of his voice... What was it he had said? "Utter madness for me to marry now... you will forget... go on to some other man... I shall always regret having hurt you—but never having loved you." A door opening. A door closing. Silence. Silence as still as an unbroken sea. A little death. Golden roses in a silver bowl. A dead cigarette on a silver ash tray. A room still and warm and empty. A girl sobbing on a chintz davenport. A girl driving furiously through space.

That was what Perry had meant, then, when he had said he was not sure, that was what Dennis had meant that day she had tried to tell her that love didn't last. They had both seen. Marcia had seen. Everyone had seen except herself. And she had been blind, stupidly blind, her eyes blurred with love. And it hadn't been real. Nothing was real any more. Nothing but the feel of the engine beneath her fingers, the sound of the motor, beneath the cream-colored hood, the sweep of the wind against her face. That was real. She would go on and on until she left everything behind—until there was nothing, nothing.

But she didn't, of course. All the time she had known that she wouldn't. That you couldn't run away from things like that. That in the end you had to come back. And go on—the best way you could. At four o'clock she stopped at a filling station for gas and a cup of coffee. It was strong and stinging hot. The boy who brought it to her looked sympathetic and curious.

Quinsy Sore Throat "In Season"

This Painful Disease Is More Common in the Spring and Fall

By ROYAL S. COPELAND, M.D.
 United States senator from New York
 Former Commissioner of Health
 New York City

WARM WEATHER is here and with it a variety of diseases encountered in changeable weather. Such a disease is "quinsy sore throat" which occurs most frequently in spring and fall.

Dr. Copeland

Quinsy sore throat is an uncomfortable and painful affliction. Many persons have the false impression it is merely an inflammation or irritation of the throat. It is really an abscess located in the throat near the tonsil. It is a common affliction of persons who are victims of tonsillitis and, in most instances, can be traced to diseased and infected tonsils. It is often confused with tonsillitis but differs from this infection by being more painful and involving only one side of the throat.

Like tonsillitis, the sufferer from quinsy sore throat is unable to swallow food and has pain on eating or talking. High fever, headache and general discomfort are other signs of this disorder. As a rule, there is a throbbing and painful sensation in the ear of the side affected. For this reason it is often mistaken for an infected ear.

The only cure for quinsy sore throat is incision and drainage of the pus. Like any other abscess within the body, cure can only be brought about by evacuation of the pus. Unfortunately, most persons fear the knife and avoid this simple operation. This is an unwise attitude, for although the acute pain might subside and the infection seem to clear up, it will recur at frequent intervals. I have known patients who have had as many as six to ten attacks of quinsy sore throat within a short period of time.

Of course, quinsy sore throat can be prevented by removing all centers of infection within the throat. Since infected and enlarged tonsils are the most common causes of this disturbance, I would recommend that tonsils which are really diseased be removed. If you are the victim of diseased tonsils and quinsy sore throat do not hesitate to have this operation. If you have never suffered from this form of sore throat, but have had trouble with your tonsils, you can save yourself from a great deal of unnecessary pain by having the tonsils removed.

May Cause Other Diseases
 Diseased tonsils are a stumbling block to health. They are often the underlying cause of such physical disturbances as heart disease, kidney disease, arthritis, neuritis and rheumatism. This menace is especially great in young children. Enlarged and diseased tonsils retard the normal growth of children. Though it is not the cause of chorea and acute rheumatism, it is often a contributing factor in the onset of these dreaded infections.

In what I have said, I do not mean to imply that all tonsils should be removed. This is a mistaken idea and I am strongly opposed to such a procedure. The tonsils should only be removed when they are enlarged and infected.

Bear in mind, that in quinsy sore throat, the seat of infection may come from diseased and infected teeth or nasal sinuses. This is especially true in adults. Do not neglect quinsy sore throat but make every effort to determine the underlying cause.

AT THE CLIFTONA

John Barrymore, colorful seion of the stage and screen royal family, aspired to be an artist, and studied in Paris. Failing to set the world afire with his sketches, he followed Arthur Brisbane's advice to follow family tradition and go on the stage. Barrymore did, without much success, until he suddenly hit his stride with a leading role in "The Dictator."

A new name joined the roster of Barrymore's greats. Barrymore scored both as comedian and tragedian. Some of his leading plays include "Justice," "Peter Ibbetson," "Redemption," "The Jest," and the Shakespearean vehicles, "Richard III" and "Hamlet."

year, "Counselor At Law," starring John Barrymore and adapted from Elmer Rice's sensational stage play by Elmer Rice, himself, is at the Grand Theatre.

Rice, known as one of the outstanding playwrights of the world today, has contributed many plays to motion pictures, including the famous "Street Scene" and for Universal went especially to California to adapt his own play to the screen. He, having studied and practiced law himself, wrote the compelling dramatic scenes of this lawyer's life straight from his own heart and experience.

Empty Seat of Kidnaped Heiress

While the classmates of 6-year-old June Robles go ahead with their tasks as usual, the vacant seat (arrow) where the kidnaped girl used to sit in Tucson, Ariz., public school is a constant reminder to them of their little playmate. As this picture was made June's grandfather, Bernabe Robles, was trying to establish contact with kidnapers.

Length of Film Marriages Differ

Average About 20 Months If Gilberts Are Called Criteria.

HOLLYWOOD, May 2.—How long do Hollywood marriages last? If the four marriages of John Gilbert, sued yesterday for divorce by Virginia Bruce, can be taken as a criterion, the average marriage lasts about 20 months. Gilbert's first marriage to Olivia Burwell lasted less than a year. He was married to Leatrice Joy for 26 months to Ina Claire for 27 months to Miss Bruce for 18 months. Corinne Griffith and Walter Morosco who were divorced yesterday in Juarez, Mex., were married nearly 10 years. Richard Bennett, the veteran screen and stage star, and Mrs. Bennett were married six years and nine months before she filed suit for separate maintenance here Monday. Hollywood is not certain it should assume responsibility for the separation of Katharine Hepburn and Ludlow Smith. If Hollywood can be blamed, however, it would be a matter of a little more than a year since Miss Hepburn established her first contact with the film colony.

GUN STUDIED

COLUMBUS, May 3.—On the theory that it may be the "mystery gun" that has been the object of a long search at Ohio Penitentiary, Warden Preston E. Thomas disclosed today that he is closely examining a .38-caliber automatic pistol dropped in flight near Conesville by the three convicts who escaped from the prison last Sunday. Examination of the weapon, which was found after a gun duel between the escaped prisoners, and a pose in the swamp area near Conesville, was being conducted as authorities on the trail of the fugitives were pushing their search near Marquand Mills.

6 CHILDREN HURT AS BUS CRASHES

YOUNGSTOWN, May 3.—Six children were hurt today in a school bus crash at Boardman, near here. Driver of a cattle truck which collided with the bus also was injured but none of the seven injured was in a serious condition. Nineteen other children in the bus escaped uninjured. The school bus and the truck collided at a crossroad.

COUNTY DADS TO CONSULT OTHERS

Intend to Make No Hasty Decision on FERA; Projects Are Progressing.

The county commissioners decided Wednesday afternoon to consult commissioners of other counties concerning the Federal Emergency Relief administration and its operation before deciding what to do concerning this county. They realize the importance of their decision and intend to make a study of all angles before taking action. Ernie Weiler, named by E. O. Braught, state relief commissioner, to succeed A. J. Dunkel, was on the job today. He reported the Logan Elm project will soon be finished, the north and sewer will be completed within a week and that a canal project to make improvements west of the city started Thursday. The hospital project is well in hand, he said, with the walks completed. J. H. Drum, food distributor, reported the following facts concerning food handed out in this county for the first four months of the year: cheese, 500 pounds; lard, 1,350 pounds; eggs, 97,520; fresh beef, 21,300 pounds; milk wheats, 7,240 pounds; flour, 21,050 pounds; butter, 6,450 pounds; salt pork, 5,000 pounds; smoked pork, 30,722.

ROBLES ABDUCTION SHOWDOWN NEAR

TUCSON, Ariz., May 3.—A showdown in the kidnaping of June Robles is imminent. With the truce entered into by all law enforcement agencies to permit full and free contact with her family expiring at midnight, developments were believed near today. It was learned that department of justice agents are prepared to step into the investigation again on a moment's notice, providing "developments warrant." While the nature of the expected developments was not explained it was believed to be connected with asserted secret negotiations in Mexico for the return of the six-year-old child now missing eight days. Although Bernabe Robles, aged

Our Loan No. 18-6062 was "let out" of a position that he had filled for over 10 years. During that time he had dealt with The City Loan several times, so his loan credit was established. After six months of worry and short rations, he finally persuaded a food-products concern to become a solicitor. This required a cash bond of $200, so he came to his old friend, The City Loan, and borrowed $225, using the extra amount to improve his appearance and tide him over. He made good at his work, and is paying his debt every week to get down the interest.

WASH OUT 15 MILES OF KIDNEY TUBES

Win Back Pep...Vigor...Vitality
Medical authorities agree that your kidneys contain 15 MILES of tiny tubes or filters which help to purify the blood and keep you healthy. They should be poured out thru the bladder 3 pints of fluid a day which contains 4 pounds of waste matter. If you have trouble with too frequent bladder passages with scanty amount causing burning and discomfort, the 15 MILES of kidney tubes need washing out. This danger signal may be the beginning of nagging backache, leg pains, loss of pep and vitality, getting up nights, lumbago, swollen feet and ankles, rheumatic pains and dizziness. If kidneys don't empty 3 pints every day and get rid of 4 pounds of waste matter, your body will take up these poisons causing serious trouble. It may knock you out and lay you up for many months. Don't wait. Ask your druggist for DOAN'S PILLS...a doctor's prescription...which has been used successfully by millions of kidney sufferers for over 40 years. They give quick relief and will help to wash out the 15 MILES of kidney tubes. But don't take chances with strong drugs or so-called "kidney cures" that claim to fix you up in 15 minutes. Your common sense will tell you that this is impossible. Treatments of this nature may seriously injure and irritate delicate tissues inlayed on DOAN'S PILLS...the old reliable relief that contain no "dope" or habit-forming drugs. Be sure you get DOAN'S PILLS at your druggist. © 1934, Foster-Milburn Co.

"BIG TEN" DISPUTES RID PRACTICE DATE

CHICAGO, May 3.—Beautiful days are threatened and the existence of the Big Ten is wavering today on the issue of a little dispute the gentlemen are having over the relatively unimportant matter of early fall practice.

The infuriated gentlemen will give precedence to this disclosure by giving it, of course, but from a reliable source we learn that the gentlemen are gathering and every-thing among the brotherhood is being discussed as it should be among those engaged in the con-struction of men of tomorrow.

PRESENT EACH OTHER
In fact, the gentlemen are so much resenting one another these days that they have even neglected to find any new resentment for the professional footballers. It takes a heap of resentment to bring about this condition.

Briefly, the situation is some-what as follows: At Michigan, Ohio State, Chicago, Wisconsin and Minnesota classes open on or about October 1. At Illinois, Pur-duke, Indiana, Northwestern and Iowa classes open anywhere from September 10 to 20.

This schedule for opening class-ses is all very commensurate with the spirit of camaraderie except for the fact that football practice begins on September 15. In other words the young men at the first named schools are not annoyed with book learning until Oct. 1 and devote an unlimited amount of time for two weeks.

WEEK WOULD COST
At the other institutions, the schedule for opening classes is a serious impediment to football and they can play only a few hours a day. To remedy the situation it was suggested that football practice open on Sept. 10, but this only served to further irk the gentlemen who are not annoyed with book learning until Oct. 1 and devote an unlimited amount of time for two weeks.

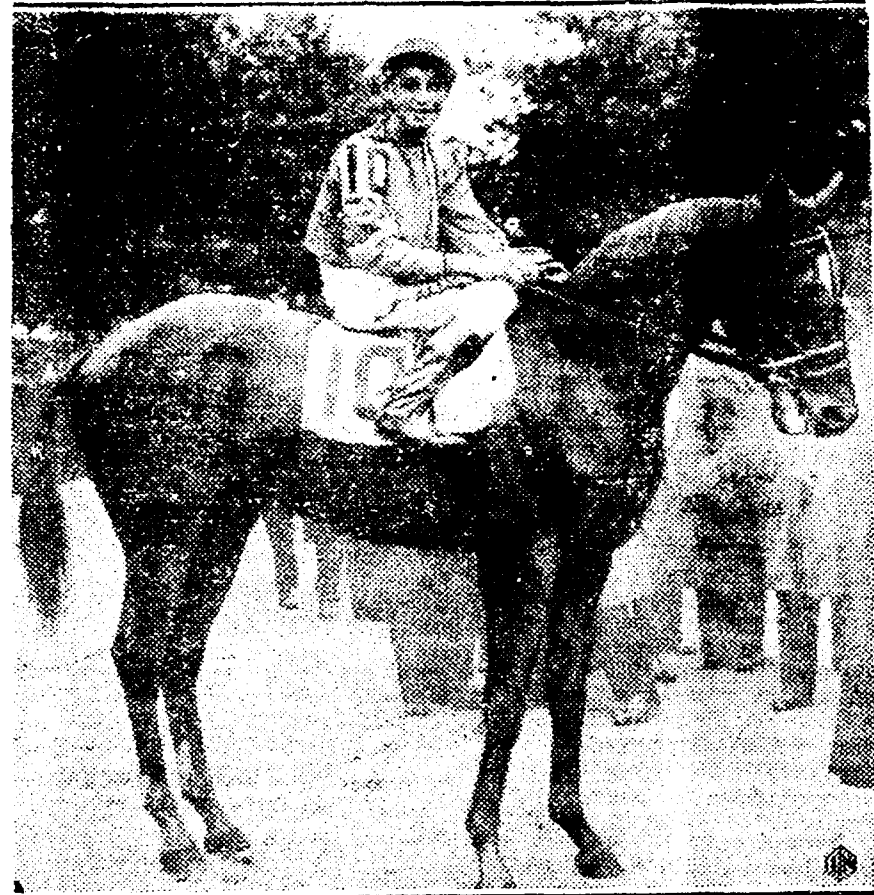

And so there the matter stands. "Had our venerated ancestors been as wise in action as they were in speech," said H. H. Ho, the sage of Chinatown, "it would be easier for us to assure happiness to our pos-terity."

Not So Wise
Had our venerated ancestors been as wise in action as they were in speech, said H. H. Ho, the sage of Chinatown, "it would be easier for us to assure happiness to our pos-terity."

Tries Comeback

After being dethroned as Buck-ey conference pole vault champion last year, Frank "Tex" Leonard, Ohio Wesleyan ace, is seeking to regain his title in this year's meet, to be held at Delaware May 25 and 26.

Leonard established a new re-cord of 12 feet, 7 inches in the Buckeye meet two years ago, but lost out to Earl Black, Miami, in last year's meet. Black set a new record of 13 feet at the time.

The Ohio Wesleyan star consis-tently gets over 12 feet and unless injuries hamper his performance on May 25 and 26 he may attain the 13-foot mark.

About This And That

BY THE
SECOND GUESSER

Although the recreation ball sea-son does not officially open until Monday the Southern Ohio Electric Co. field is filled every evening with ball players trying to get in condition. Members of the Meecu and the Ralston-Purina teams had the field Wednesday evening and members of the Circleville Oil team have been called to practice tonight. The fact that the Oils are work-ing out doesn't mean that members of other teams cannot appear on the field. There is plenty of room for all who want to practice.

The Oils play the fast Col-umbus Plank Bakers, Sunday, in the first regular game on the new field. An effort will be made to have a fence, backstop, bases, etc., ready for play.

The final meeting of the league managers and captains is schedu-led Friday evening in The Herald office with final details to be worked out.

Good old Johnny Hodapp, whom we contend will be a star of stars in the American association as his throwing arm responds to treatment, came through with a timely swat Wednesday to win a ball game for the Birds. With two men on base he lashed a line single into left field driving the winning run over the plate, the Birds win-ning 5-4 from Toledo's fighting Mudhens.

PINCH HIT WINS

COLUMBUS, May 3.—After breaking even in the four-game Toledo series by defeating the Mud Hens yesterday, 5 to 4, the Colum-bus Red Birds were to meet the Milwaukee Brewers here today in the first of a three-game series.

Two smashing home runs, with a man on base each time, by Harry Davis, Toledo first baseman, ac-counted for the four Toledo runs. A single by Johnny Hodapp, who was pinch hitting for Odea, in the eighth inning scored Mickey Heath with the Red Birds winning run.

London's Largest Reservoir
London's largest reservoir, situat-ed at Littleton, measures four and a half miles round its banks, and could provide ample anchorage for a fleet of battleships.

The Milwaukee Brewers are in town today for the first of a three game series. It closes Saturday with the Minneapolis Millers, lead-ing the league, invading the bill-boards Sunday.

Arabs Skilled Workmen
The Arabs were practical art-ificers and manufacturers. They fashioned beautiful objects from gold, silver, copper, bronze, iron and steel. In the famous Damascus blade they produced something that only modern alloy steel can match. In the treatment of textile fabrics the modern manufacturer finds it hard to surpass them. They pro-cessed leather, dyed cloth and man-ufactured paper.

PERRY-TWP SCHOOL NEWS

Seventh and Eighth Grades
Those in the seventh grade who have been present all year are Neal Wright, Anna Lee Hott, Martha Downing, Faye Dell, Hollis Ruth Zimmerman, Ruth Bentley and those in the eighth grade are Ruth Reisinger and Howard Betts. One of the principal articles which were exhibited by the seven-th and eighth grades was a graph for the spelling which was given in agriculture. The final outcome of the spelling left the police dogs with an almost perfect record. The police dogs were followed by the bull dogs then the bird dogs, hounds and rat terriers.

High School
The freshman English students enjoyed a debate in scientific lines on Monday of this week. The sub-ject was "Resolved—Environment plays a greater part on ones life than heredity. Those on the af-firmative team were Martha Dona-hoe, Martha French, and Betti-gene Campbell. Those on the nega-tive were Ray Creighton and Her-bert Lamb. Eddie Keaton the third member of the team being absent. The judges voted unanimously for the affirmative team.

The home economic class pre-pared a very palatial banquet Tuesday evening as a close for the years work. Besides the twelve members of the class their teacher Miss Oglesbee and Miss Hauman were seated at the table. The fol-lowing is the menu: Swiss steak, mashed potatoes, gravy, green beans, pickles and lime salad with fudge cake and ice cream.

Freshmen and a few other stu-dents were given Winston work-ers manuals. Mr. Costlow believes that this plan will be of great as-sistance in adding new words to the vocabulary of the student.

The P. T. A. was held last Thursday night in the high school auditorium. The best handwork of the pupils was exhibited by the teachers. The program of which the teachers were in charge was enjoyed immensely by all. Music was furnished by Mr. Hickman and his band of Lancaster. Rev. Tucker of Clarksburg gave a short talk on "This Fast Changing World." As this was the last meet-ing of the year officers for the following year were elected. Coyt Cleary was elected president and Mrs. Homer Wright and Miss Chilcote were retained as treasurer and secretary respectively.

Pardoning Power of President
Pardoning power of the President extends only to federal prisoners and he does not have Constitutional power to pardon state prisoners. This power lies only with the gov-ernor or the pardoning board of each individual state.

Rain Is Forecast In Drought Area

CHICAGO, May 3.—Fervent hopes for rain to relieve desper-ated drought conditions prevailing all over the great agricultural areas of the country are likely to be answered this week.

Forecaster C. A. Donnel of the weather bureau here today said that indications all over the corn and wheat region, 15 states in the central and north central portions of the country, were for local showers in all these states with a more generous downpour in Illinois.

Pain relief so badly needed after the driest April on record in many communities, will come in time only to save part of the crops which have already been damaged to the extent of many millions of dollars. A continuously dry winter followed with a show-widespread to the growers of crops, has made gardening back-ward and ruined much truck cropping. Plowing has been hand-capped by dusty, dry soil.

The intense drought condition has resulted in destructive prairie fires. Water shortages threaten several cities.

Under the certainty of short crops of wheat, corn and small grains, prices are rising. Further deterioration of the winter wheat crop through the prevailing drought conditions seems certain even if showers come to the rescue. Observers stated. Estimates of crop experts as of May 1 indicate a winter wheat crop of 435,000,000 bushels as compared with their original forecast of 506,000,000 bushels.

Cookies From Your Refrigerator

How are rich tea cookies made? They are rich and rather expensive to buy ready to serve. Have you asked that very question? Plain, drop cookie recipes can meet the requirements of richness and goodness if the mixture is chilled thoroughly ahead of time, and kept cold until the cookies are placed in the oven. Save a space in your refrigerator for the chilled cookie dough, and when guests drop in you can greet them joyfully, knowing that a few minutes baking will give them delights from the kitchen.

Dough that has warmed up to room temperature requires more flouring for working than dough that has been kept chilled, so chilling has a double advantage—it increases crispness in the finished product and makes the dough easily handled in the raw state.

Chocolate Drop Cookies

For chocolate drop cookies, drop the batter on a greased cookie sheet by teaspoonfuls with the dough piled in outstanding mounds. With the oven set at the proper temperature and preheated, the cookies do not melt and flatten out in baking.

1 C. sugar 1/2 C. nuts
1/2 C. shortening 1/2 C. raisins
2 eggs, well beaten 2 tsp. baking
3 sq. chocolate powder
2 C. flour 1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 tsp. vanilla 1/2 C. sweet milk

Cream the shortening and add the sugar. Add eggs and melted chocolate. Then add milk, vanilla, nuts and chopped raisins. Mix well. Add baking powder and flour. Drop by teaspoonfuls on a greased pan and bake at 375 degrees for 10 minutes.

Swedish Cookies

Swedish Cookies are especially dainty for refreshments. When sliced, they may be decorated attractively with bits of candied cherry, angelica or citron, chopped nuts, colored sugar or decorettes.

1 C. sugar 1 egg, well beaten
1 C. butter 1 tsp. vanilla
4 C. sifted, prepared cake flour

Sift the flour once, measure and sift again. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually and cream together until light and fluffy. Add egg and beat well. Add flour, a small amount at a time, mixing thoroughly after each addition. Add vanilla and blend. Shape into 2 rolls, 1 1/2 inch in diameter, and chill overnight or until firm enough to slice. Bake on an ungreased cookie sheet in a hot oven (400 degrees) for four to five minutes. Makes 5 dozen cookies.

Fig Surprises

3/4 C. sifted pastry flour
4 tsp. baking powder
1/2 tsp. salt
1/2 C. butter or other shortening
1 C. sifted brown sugar
1 egg, well beaten
1 tsp. vanilla
1/2 C. milk

Sift the flour once, measure, add baking powder, and sift together three times. Cream butter thoroughly, add sugar gradually and cream until light and fluffy. Add egg and vanilla, then flour and milk alternately, a small amount at a time. Beat until smooth. Chill until firm enough to roll. Roll 1/4 inch thick. Cut with a 2 1/2-inch cutter. Put 1 tsp. fig filling on a cut out cookie, place another cut ring on top and press the edges together. Bake at 425 degrees for 6 to 8 minutes. Makes 4 dozen cookies.
